

SUPPLEMENT

Coffee,
Freeland
and
Allied Families

This supplement gives corrections which have been brought to my attention. Notification of any errors is appreciated. Some of the errors were in the original copy and some were made in copying the information for printing.

Also included is information which has been obtained since the original publication. Research is still going on and it is hoped that all of the allied families will eventually be completed and more information on those already included will be found as additional sources are located and studied.

By checking the page numbers listed with the new material with the corresponding pages in the book, one can see how this data fits in. If someone later wishes to reprint the book, this can be incorporated in the proper places.

My thanks to Clark and Robin Coffee for their help in setting type for this supplement.

CORRECTIONS

Under CONTENTS:

"Ilsey" should read Ilsley.
Mason should be 82, 85, 91, 92

Page 18:

Scott Campbell was with the Salem Police force for six years, not one.

Page 29:

"Matebe" tribe should read Matebele Tribe.
Donald and Faye Smith were married June 1950, not July.
Donald Kendall Smith was born in 1929, not 1926.

Page 32

Clark E. Coffee and Robin Collins were married in 1962, not 1964.

Pictures, Pages 38—40:

In the third picture following page 38, in identifying those who visited the old house, it should be Clara and Kendall Freeland, not Kendall and Sarah Freeland.

ADDITIONS

Names to be added to the list of Allied Families: Bourne, Tilden, Sutton, House, Paine, Hammond, Thayer, Butterworth, Bowen, Tayler and Waterhouse.

History of Washington County, New York, 1737-1878 (where Nathaniel Coffee was born) states that in 1790 the number of dwellings in Whitehall did not exceed eight or ten. A post office was established in 1796. The town grew slowly. During the War of 1812, Whitehall became a strategic place, and a base for supplies. After this war the town grew rapidly in population. In 1820 Whitehall became an incorporated village, but the records covering the first 40 years of its existence as such have been destroyed. (This may account for some of the problems in gaining information about the Coffee family. Until 1761 the area was untouched and in a "state of nature.")

Add the following for Nina Christina Coffee:

Although Nina Coffee Smith was married at 18, she and Leslie went to college together and taught for two years before their first child was born. Later she took college work whenever possible and as her home duties allowed. Finally, after 31 years from her first college work she received her AB from Westmont College in Santa Barbara, California. At that time she was the first grandmother to receive a degree at that school. She taught a total of 26 years in elementary grades.

Leslie graduated from Oregon Normal School, and received his AB from Seattle Pacific College. His Master's was earned at University of Washington, and his Ph.D. at the University of Portland. His college teaching included Visiting Professor at Westmont College, Professor of Education and Director of teacher training at Cascade College and Warner Pacific College, 1954-71 when he retired. He secured the approval of the State of Oregon for both schools' teacher education programs. Leslie is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, Educational Honorary. He was a member of the Advisory Council to the State Superintendent of Public Education for 10 years.

Leslie and Nina were in Rhodesia 1971-72 writing teachers' manuals for reading books for the Rhodesian schools. Their son, Don, was living there and working with the Matebele people. They traveled in Europe for two months en route to and from Africa.

Both Nina and Leslie are active members of Burlingame Baptist Church and have held many responsible positions in that church.

NORTHEND, EZEKIEL, born in England about 1622, inhabitant of Rowley, Mass., 1645. A John Northend settled in Connecticut and never was in Massachusetts. As there were no other of that name in Massachusetts, Ezekiel is related to our ancestor. Our known ancestor, Elizabeth Parrott, was born 1 May, 1640, the daughter of Francis and Elizabeth Northend Parrott. Considering the dates, the first Elizabeth must have been born about the same time as Ezekiel. Perhaps she was a sister who came over with him, but I can find no mention of her. Francis Parrott was in Rowley, Mass., with his wife, Elizabeth, in 1640 when their daughter, Elizabeth, was born. It is very possible that Francis Parrott and Elizabeth Northend were married before coming to America. Francis Parrott was from Peraidd, Wales, the sweet or delicious river, now the Dee.

EDWARD BARNEY, (Genealogical Gleanings in England by Henry F. Waters) in his will lists his son Jacob Barney our first ancestor of that name in America. The following material on John Rooles is also included. John Rooles' daughter is listed as Isbell Barney. The Barney Genealogy in the History of Guilford gives Isbell Rooles as Edward Barney's wife. Cliff Barney of the Barney Family Historical Association writes, "I don't think Isbell Rooles is correct. My best information, from original research in parish records, is that his wife's name was Christian _____. Isbell Rooles, however, may have been a former wife."

From the Parish Registers of Bradford, England:

Marriages: Richard Mallynson and Sara Waterhouse, October 29, 1601.

From Paver's Marriage Licenses:

Richard Mallinson and Sara Waterhouse of Bradford, at Bradford, 1601.

Baptisms: 1606, Mary d. of Richard Mallynson of Eckilshill, May 29.

Burials:

1638, Richard Mallinson of Bradford, May 14.

1643, Sara wife of Richard Mallinson of Bradford, Nov. 16.

THOMAS MALLINSON, of Bradford, Yorkshire, Eng., was a contemporary of the father of Edward Jowett, and perhaps of about the same age, born possibly about 1550-55, buried at Bradford, in the church, 6 Aug. 1624. His wife, whose name is unknown, had also been buried in the Bradford church, 20 Jan. 1602. These records, relatively unusual, indicate a family of some distinction.

The will of Thomas Mallinson, dated 31 May 1624, indicates that he had moved at the end of his life to Manningham, a township in the parish of Bradford, where dwelt his youngest daughter with her husband, Thomas Wilkinson. He bequeathed ten pounds to his son Richard, and the residue of his property to his widowed daughter Ellen and his sons-in-law, William Booth of Horton and Thomas Wilkinson of Manningham.

RICHARD MALLINSON, born probably as early as 1580, was buried at Bradford 14 May 1638. He married (by license) at Bradford 29 Oct. 1601 SARA WATERHOUSE, who was buried at Bradford 16 Nov. 1643, possibly the daughter of Edward Waterhouse of Idle, near Bradford, whose will dated 13 Feb. 1598 and proved 25 April 1599. He was buried in the courtyard of Calverley, whose parish registers show numerous Waterhouse records, but none early enough for the baptism of this Sara. Richard Mallinson's will is of particular interest in its specific bequest to "Joseph Jowett whoe marryed my daughter Marye" and in the bequest "unto Sara daughter of sayd Marye," which confirms the fact shown by the parish register that this small granddaughter was the only child in the family of Joseph Jowett at the date of the will, and calls attention to the inaccuracy of the American accounts which have always placed Jeremiah as the eldest child of Joseph Jowett.

JEWETT

An excerpt from the will of Edward Jowett, 1614, follows:

I give and bequeath two full parts of all my goods cattells chattels and creditts (in three pts to be divided) unto Willm Jowett, Maximilian Jowett, Joseph Jowett and Sara Jowett my children equally to be divided amongst them after my debts be paide and funerall expences discharged The third pte and residue of all my saide goods cattelles chattells and creditts I give and bequeath unto Mary my wife whome I make the sole executrix of this my last will and testament And I doe intreat Willm Tayler my father in law Henry tayler my brother in law Samuel Tayler and Trustrum Ledyard to be the supervisors of this my last will and testament.

The will was probated 12 July 1615. The clerk spelled the name "Jowet" but the original has Jowett. The firm monogram-like initials in which the original is signed indicate a much more cultivated man than the scrawled 'marks' of the witnesses.

Pages 92—93:

From the Parish Registers of Bradford, Yorkshire, 1596-1656:

Marriages: Joseph Jowett and Mary Mallinsonn, October 1, 1634.

Baptisms: Joseph ye s. of Edward Jewett of Bradford Dec. 31, 1609.

Burials: Widow of Edward Jowet, Jan. 28, 1596/7.

In an unindexed manuscript of Court Rolls of the Duchy of Lancaster, of which Bradford Manor was a part, of the time of Henry V (1413-14), the only mentions for this family were several items of a William Jowet summoned to court with many others to answer for trespasses. A century later, muster rolls of the time of Henry VIII show in Bradford the names of Edward Jooet, Richard Jooet, and John Jooet (probably still pronounced Jowet, just as the name Cooper is even now pronounced Cowper in the north of England).

T.E. Hazen, in Two Founders of Rowley, Mass., states: From all these records, however, and the numerous occurrences of the name of William Jowett in the early parish registers, the contributor has arrived at the personal conviction that the father of Edward Jowett who heads the American lineage must have been a William Jowett, very likely that one who was buried at Bradford 27 May 1613. Since there is no actual proof at hand, this is given merely as a suggestion which it is hoped may find support in future research. The settled pedigree must therefore still begin, as before, with Edward Jowett.

EDWARD JOWETT of Bradford, England, born perhaps about 1580, died at Bradford, and was buried there 4 Feb. 1614/15. He married at Bradford, 1 Oct. 1604, Mary Tayler, sister of Samuel Tayler, and daughter of William Tayler who is probably that William Tayler who was buried in the church 12 July 1616.

Edward Jowett is called in his will, dated 2 Feb. 1614 (probably the day of his death), a clothier, which indicates that he had rather large interests in the manufacture of cloth, and perhaps held different lands and properties, since, in the record of the baptism of his second son, he is called "of Eccleshill," a township which might be called suburban, though still in the extended parish of Bradford. His wife survived with four small children, and, bereft again the next year of her father, who had been the protector of the family, what wonder that she appears, soon after this last event, to have contracted another alliance, indicated by the Parish Register in the record of marriage on 7 Aug. 1616 of "William Lister and Mary Tayler, widow, of Bradford, at Bradford." In this discrepancy one may see a striking confirmation of the identity of the bride: either the groom was asked for her maiden name, or it was well known that she belonged in the family of her late father.

Both Edward Jowett and William Tayler were buried "in the church," which indicates that they were men of prominence. Both also wrote their own wills, which shows a higher degree of education than was usual at that time.

JOSEPH JOWETT (later Jewett) of Rowley, Mass., baptized at Bradford, Eng., 31 Dec. 1609, died at Rowley, where he was buried 26 Feb. 1660/61. He married: first, at Bradford, 1 Oct. 1634, MARY MALLINSON, baptized at Bradford 29 May 1606, died at Rowley and buried there 12 April 1652, daughter of RICHARD and SARA WATERHOUSE MALLINSON; and second, in Boston, Mass., 13 May 1653, Ann Allen, who was buried at Rowley 8 Feb. 1660/1, widow of Capt. Bozoan Allen.

Joseph and Mary Jowett came over, it is believed, with Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, and were among the early members of the First Church in Dorchester (admitted before "4 da.: 9 mo 1639"), where they probably spent the first winter, removing in the spring to the new settlement at Rowley. He was a freeman 22 May 1639, and was deputy to the General Court in 1651, 1652, 1653, and 1654, and 1660; he was one of the two stewards for each of their sessions. In 1656 he is called "clothier" and later "merchant," and was active in business affairs most of his life. As shown later, he signed his name Joseph Jowit as a witness to the will of his father-in-law 22 Sept. 1636, and even as late as 1653 he and his son Jeremiah wrote their name Jowett in an agreement preserved in the Court Files. Later they used the spelling Jewett, which has been universal among their descendants.

Joseph Jewett's will, dated 15 Feb. 1660 and proved 26 March 1661, is on file at Salem. He named as executors "my brother Maximilian Jewett, and my sonne Phillip Nelson, my sonne John Carleton and my sonne Jeremiah Jewett."

His first two children were born in England at Bradford, the rest at Rowley, Mass.

PATIENCE JEWETT (twin of Faith, who died in infancy) was born 5 May 1645; married first at Lynn, Mass. 29 May 1666 Shubael Walker, died at Bradford, Mass. 22 Jan. 1688/9 and was buried at Lynn; married second Richard Dole of Newbury, son of William Dole.

The following people were sponsors at the baptisms of Maria and Jenny:

Maria: Cornelius Terwilliger and Maria Robberson

Jenny: Johannes Bosch and Jenneke Ennest

Maria's baptism was by Domine Jacob R. Hardenbergh

(All names above are spelled as they appeared in the original records)

I realize that "Roberson" is not "Robinson," but sometimes in those early days the clerks and/or ministers were not too careful about how they spelled names, and so it is possible that these are the people you are looking for.

Secondly, although the first data I have for the children of Antje and John is 22 April 1787 (at the baptism of Maria), they might have had a child by the name of Catherine a year and a half earlier of whom I do not have a record. In this case, either the child was not baptized (which is somewhat unlikely), or was baptized in a different church, and we have no record of it.

All of the above is in the nature of speculation with respect to your particular search, but sometimes you have to make wild assumptions and then track that lead down until it is proven unsatisfactory. Every once in a while you hit pay dirt.

As to your statement "Tradition is that her parents were Holland Dutch," I can assure you that the Terwilligers were indeed Holland Dutch. The first Terwilliger in America was Evert Dircksen, who arrived in New Amsterdam (later New York City) on March 15, 1663. He came from the town of Vianen, Holland.

As far as we know, all persons by the name of Terwilliger (or variations of that spelling) are descended from Evert through his son, Jan.

COFFEE, BEATRICE M. NEWSOM (MAYGER), born San Francisco, CA, 11-23-97; died Eerkeley, CA, 5-11-74. Parents: James B. Newsom, born San Francisco, CA, son of Alfred C. Newsom and Elizabeth S. Egan (?) Newsom. Married Bessie Abernathy-Tate or Abernathy-Johnstone, born in England. (As her mother's maiden name, Betty sometimes wrote "Abernathy-Tate" and others "Abernathy-Johnstone". We are unsure which is correct. We have here a book awarded to Betty's mother ("The Lady of Provence" by A.L.O.E., published in London, 1871) from the "North London Collegiate School for Ladies, presented to Miss Beth Abernathy-Tate for Diligence and Attention in French, 1872". However, the "Tate" is written over an obvious erasure which could have been "Johnstone". There's a definite "ne" on the end!

James Byron Newsom was born in San Francisco, CA, the son of Alfred C. Newsom and Elizabeth S. (Egan?) Newsom. (Notes on Elizabeth S. Egan(?) Newsom from a scrapbook containing newspaper obituary notice): born 1834, native of Parish of Seven Churches, Kings Co., Ireland. Died 1-29-1912, San Francisco, CA, at age 78, buried in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma, CA. Survived by sons James B., William A., Henry E., and George R. Newsom, and daughter, Elizabeth Newsom Brumfield. Two daughters pre-deceased her: Mrs. William (May) Oliver and Mrs. Lillian Arditto.

Beatrice Newsom married (1) Douglas Gordon Reid Atkinson, 1917.

Son: Gordon Templeton Atkinson

Son: James Bruce Atkinson

Married (2) Clark Livingston Coffee, 1926.

Son: Clark Emerson Coffee

Married (3) George Irving Mayger (Australian), 1962.

THE NAME BARNEY

PATRICIA W. LAY, Sandusky, Ohio, has submitted a manuscript compiled by CHARLES B. HARDING, showing the ancestry of the Barney Family which settled in Sandusky (see the story of CHARLES DENNIS BARNEY elsewhere in this newsletter, and also "The Barney's of Sandusky, Ohio, NL 6). To summarize just that part which relates to the name Barney and also to give some tantalizing details of the early English lineage:

"William Barney, son of Hiram Barney, gave much time to the study of family history. He says that the Barney's first came to England with William the Conqueror, from Normandy, and that the name was spelled, as was common there, Bjarne. The Ice-lander who discovered America was named Bjarne. (The Normans, of course, were originally "Norsemen." The Battle of Hastings, 1066, was a real thriller; Harold, King of England, had originally agreed that the throne was to pass to William but he reneged. Only a few days before William and his Normans landed, the English defeated disastrously a Danish invasion in Yorkshire. Only the fact that the Normans had more horses enabled them to defeat the English.)

"This ancient family was named from the town of Berney, near Wallingham in the County of Norfolk, where they were seated about the time of the Conquest and have ever since been of considerable note. The name is found in ancient records in various forms: Barneye, Berney, Berny, Barny, Barnie, Barnes, Bernie, Bearney, Barne, Barney. The English spelling was usually Berney but pronounced Barney." (Recall that clerk is pronounced clark in England.)

"The family were at Berney (at the source of the Stiffky rivulet) in 1100, at Lyon and Norwich in 1200, at Witchingham in 1300, reaching Reedham in 1350, where they continued to 1690, and afterwards at Kirby-Bedon. Branches also resided at Gunton 1400 to 1600 and at Swardston, Elsin, Westwick, and Langley---all these being in Norfolk. They were in an out of London from 1350 and came to Croydon about 1750."

The above is from a letter to Col. James Perrine Barney from Henry Berney of Croydon, dated 1922, and also from data secured by Col. Barney at Park Hall, Reedham, Norfolk County, England. He traces the lineage as follows:

From ROGER de BERNEY (Lord of Berney); Sir HENRY de BERNEY; RICHARD de BERNEY; HENRY de BERNEY, who lived at Berney, 1268; JOHN de BERNEY who resided in Norwich; THOMAS de BERNEY, who by marriage acquired the manor of Reedham, where he moved in the reign of Edward III (his elder brother Sir Robert remaining at Witchingham); JOHN BERNEY; THOMAS BERNEY de REEDHAM; JOHN BERNEY; JOHN BERNEY; JOHN de BERNAY, died 1557; HENRY BERNEY de REEDHAM, who built a magnificent house and large gardens around 1577, calling it Park-hallin Reedham; Sir THOMAS BERNEY de REEDHAM, High Sheriff of Norfolk; RICHARD, his third son, became his heir; EDWARD, his fourth son, had a son JACOB who married ELIZABETH and emigrated to America in 1634 (our Jacob of Group I). EDWARD was of Bradtenham, County Bucks. (Cliff Barney points to this connecting of the Reedham and Bradtenham Barney's and promises more research.) EDWARD BERNEY'S last will and testament reads in part "To my son JACOB BERNEY 10 pounds if he be living at the time of my death and do come over to England and personally demand the same."

"American Names," by E. C. Smith, shows that "Barney" derived from barley/barn island, a place in Norfolk. In a "Dictionary of Surnames," it is stated "Scandinavian Barney is a pet form of Bjorn, "bear," but Irish Barney is a pet form of Barnabas, "son of prophecy."
