Explanation: These cases appear in a number of different law books. They are indexed according to volume and page number. For example, the case: Coffee v. Adams will be found on page 347 of Volume 65 in the series of Georgia law books.

There are collections of law books in law libraries, which can be found in most large cities. The valuable genealogical information will probably not appear in the law book, but rather in the court dockets and files, which are stored in various repositories.

Depositions filed in relation to the case probably contain useful information.
