Family Heritage.

Trinity College, Dublin. "COETHAIGH". Call-EM- 19-4.

The name Coffey has given rise to various conjectures as to it's origin, for the benefit of the descendants of the grand old clan, who, at one time were Lord's of nearly all the south of Ireland, descended from Ith, of the Royal family of Spain, and through the female line from the Royal family of Gaul.(France).

The first mention of the name in Irish history is " Coffey the Slender", of Bregia, from the time of this Monarch downwards there are frequent references to poets and sages bearing this name.

John O'Hart, Irish Pedigrees, Dublin, 1887

Mrs. Mary Anderson Everett already mentioned John O'Hart's Irish Pedigrees in 1915 (p238).

Sexton also gave an abstract in her work, The Coffeys of Wayne County. I requested a copy of the pages referring to the Coffey name from the National Library of Ireland, which I received. "The line of Ithe" began from No. 35. Who were the numbers 34 to 1? I also requested page 50, which gave me the ancestors as far back as No. 25.

Abstract from page 50

35. Bilé was king of those countries after his father's death; and his son Galamh or Milesius succeeded him. This Bilé had a brother named Ithe.

| 32. Deag | 27. Febric Glas |
| 31. Arcadh | 26. Agnan Fionn |
| 30. Alladh | 25. Heber Glunfionn |

While I was in The British Library in London I could find the other ancestors. They are:

| 24. Lamhfionn | 12. Magog |
| 23. Agnon | 11. Japhet |
| 22. Tait | 10. Noah |

| 13. Baoth | 1. Adam |

(From 24 to 1 can be some spelling errors)

For the pages I and II from the Glendarragh manuscript we can find back most of the names mentioned by O'Hart (an example of similarity is given for page III). If this manuscript is written by H.A. Coffey, it could not be based on O'Hart's work, because the first edition of John O'Hart's Irish Pedigrees was published in 1876.

H.A. Coffey's pamphlet is dated anno 1863!

The city of "Cork" is by some derived from the Irish word corcach, above mentioned; because it is built on a low marsh island, formed by the branches of the river Lee
